Facing The New Reality

We find ourselves at a critical juncture in human history, where the grim reality of climate change is impacting everyone. We witness the unravelling of ecosystems and habitats that have thrived for millennia, the devastation of extreme weather events on our communities, the economic toll of climate-induced disasters, and the haunting spectre of a compromised future for generations to come.

But amidst this stark reality, there’s hope and a call to action. We have the knowledge, the innovation, and the collective will to drive meaningful climate solutions. Business and government, those with the most power to drive change, must lead the charge. It’s not just a moral imperative; it’s an existential necessity. The time for action is now, and together, we can forge a path towards a resilient world for all.

Scientists have been on the frontline of the fight against climate change for years, tirelessly conducting research, analysing data, and sounding the alarm on the urgent need for action. Their unwavering dedication and expertise have been instrumental in advancing our understanding of this global crisis and in driving the pursuit of innovative solutions.
Thank you

We find ourselves at a critical juncture in human history, where the grim reality of climate change is impacting everyone. But amidst this stark reality, there is hope and a call to action. Business and government, those with the most power to drive change, must lead the charge. The short film created by @ClimateGroup, ‘Facing The New Reality’ is a stark warning. Scientists have been sounding the alarm on the urgent need for action for years. @ClimateGroup’s film features four of these scientists as they dive into:

- The new reality
- The change we need
- The urgency we require

What’s changed on climate in the last year? What’s the action on fossil fuels we need now? @ClimateGroup’s film ‘Facing The New Reality’, is a stark warning by leading global scientists and analysts for businesses and governments to take urgent action.
